PEER REVIEWS & COMPARATIVE ESTIMATING

What Is A Peer Review?

It's a process where one or more professionals reviews and critiques the work of another professional on a property damage insurance claim. Underwriters consider peer reviews a key element in preventing claims against professional firms.

When Do I Need a Peer Review?

Peer reviews should be conducted on all disputed and complex claims. They're especially important on large losses and litigated claims in which some of the line items in an estimate may need to be clarified and verified.

FACTS MATTER

The opinions in our reports are based on research obtained before, during, and after an investigation. This process is not intended to prove or disprove a claim.

BCSI QUALITY

BCSI peer reviews can be performed with or without a site inspection by our experts. Our reports and estimates are designed to show the validity, quality and accuracy of a claims report and estimate, regardless of who prepared it.
